Explanation

The unit testing, data collection, and integration testing will come later on in the project consisting of videos showing the integration of the program with the database, screen recordings of the updating of data as it is being entered into the system, and screen recordings of the overall finished product.